

HS 402 : Senior Seminar

The Health Sciences Senior Seminar features discussion of primary literature related to human health and disease with emphasis on critical analysis of data and research articles. The seminar requires completion of a presentation of a topic related to human health and disease based on published research, and a written literature review and research proposal.

Credits 4.0